Exhibitor Introduction	Korea Institute of Industrial Technology is a commercialization-oriented research institute established to support small and medium-sized enterprises. We are striving to revitalize manufacturing innovation in local industries facing internal and external challenges. We develop core technologies in three key research areas (intelligent root technology, human-centric production technology, and sustainable technology) and we are operating a system of three research institutes and seven regional headquarters to transfer the results to the production sites. In addition, we have being advancing the materials, parts, and equipment industries related to root industries, while reorganizing the organization to support the transition to a digial and low-carbon economy. We are upgrading the previous decentralized research base to a mega-platform resesarch system, foundation building-oriented support to a substantial corporate profit generation platform, and individual and divisional business promotion to a strategic network synergy driving method.
